

This is an aerial photograph of a rural landscape in Poland, overlaid with a coordinate grid. The map shows a patchwork of agricultural fields, forests, and small settlements. A river, labeled 'Włga', flows through the lower portion of the image. A red dashed line delineates a specific geographical area, possibly a watershed or a study site. Several villages are labeled, including Stary Miastków, Kujawy, Wola Miastkowska, Sośnia, Zabruzdy, Zabruzdy-Kolonia, Miastków Kościelny, Gąsaw, and Zwola. A scale bar in the bottom left corner indicates distances from 0 to 500 meters. The coordinate grid shows longitude from 15°48'45" to 15°56'00" E and latitude from 51°47'30" to 51°55'00" N.
